

FEWS news: issue 1, 2020

Dear Delft-FEWS user,

This is your notification for the latest Delft-FEWS news on the portal. We very pleased to inform you that we are working on enabling notifications to be sent directly from the portal. In the meantime, check out the news from the last months.

- There is news from the Community Strategy Board announcing the topics of their meeting in March. Also, a special webinar will be organized on the 29th of April by Dave Casson, to introduce new features of Delft-FEWS Release 2019.02.
- Read interesting Blogs about Flood Early Warming in Asia, the 3D model for the North Sea and the flood in Jakarta this January. And find out more about the National Coastal Forecasting System for Mozambique on the showcases page.
- Highlighted. Preparations have started for the Userdays in the Netherlands, in Germany and in Australia, which are all scheduled for June. Updates are available on the events page. Check out the forum to learn from other users or share your knowledge.
- To be expected. More showcases will be published over the next months. Some improvements will be made to optimize the portal and a plan is set in motion which will modernize the FEWS map bringing it back to the homepage of the portal.

Let's meet online!

Contact: fews-moderators@deltares.nl for all questions related to the Delft-FEWS portal.

Best regards,

The Delft-FEWS moderators
